Ahead of her time By Hugh Smart An absorbing and well told story of an adventurous young woman travelling in remote areas of Asia. Her keen observations of the places and peoples that are today's hot spots point out how helpful these people were in the 1950's. when Americans were looked on favorably. Julianne tells of travels that a single woman would not dare to take in 2007. The young women of today would especially be wise to read this account, and to feel enabled to seek their own life's adventure.
