Always Best To Get First Hand Experience!By Don KidwellBook does a fine job providing a detailed account on the five aforementioned German cities along with active links from the table of contents, websites for added info and numerous photographs (always a plus!) Not having ever visited Germany (but hoping to one day) author highlights many of the more prominent attractions I would have spent hours having to research including addresses, telephone numbers, and operating hours. Only wish there were more explanation as to how the public transportation (subways, trams and buses) operate as I'm left wondering how the color-coded numbering system works. Definitely an informative book and really appreciate the knowledge imparted as it will surely make a trip there one day that much better! 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. One of the best tour guides that I have read

By Alex One of the best tour guides that I have read. No guff, just the important and necessary information. The author has collected the sights, which are close to each other. In each of these cities, arriving at the city center, can be viewed from many attractions. There is no need to travel to different parts of the city. Special thanks to the author for the good advice. My rating - 5 stars. A must-read. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Who is interested in traveling, read - you will not regret.

By Janet Next year was going to travel to Germany. This book helped me a lot. It describes the many attractions and other interesting places. Many useful links are easier to search. The author also gives very good tips and hints. Through which you can save lot of time. A very good guide. Who is interested in traveling, read - you will not regret.

This is a new and complete guide written from first-person, based on personal experience. It is a very handy and informative guide. It is the first book about Germany, one in a series. It describes five cities: Hamburg, Bremen, Hannover, Wolfsburg and the German capital of Berlin. Here you will find a description of the various attractions such as museums and galleries, monuments, churches and sculptures, zoos and gardens, a submarine and others. There is a description of some hotels and cafes, and links are attached for your convenience. Also, in the guide, all the sights shown with addresses
