Awesome!!By Kayla IrwinThis book is awesome! It is definitely a must have for ghost hunters and fans alike! Very glad I bought it!

Rosemary Ellen Guiley is a renowned expert on paranormal, visionary, and spiritual topics. She puts her expertise to use in this guide to the scariest sites in the Keystone State. Each destination includes a detailed description and photographs so readers may test their own ghosthunting skills or visit from the safety of their armchairs. Firsthand accounts of otherworldly encounters bring the spooks into view, while a Ghostly Resources section points ghosthunters to further information.

From the Inside FlapHere are some examples of what is covered in this book: SOUTHERN PENNSYLVANIA Chapter 15 Devil s Den, GettysburgThe entire battlefield of Gettysburg is one of the most haunted places in America. Devil s Den is one of the hottest places in the battlefield, where Union and Confederate sharpshooters battled it out from a hilltop and rocks below. The Confederates lost, and many of their ghosts are still fighting there. Chapter 16 Wheatfield, GettysburgScene of some of the bloodiest fighting during the 1863 battle of Gettysburg, this field is full of ghostly sounds and sights: screaming, gun and cannon fire, horses, and apparitions of soldiers in the pitch of fighting. Chapter 17 Cashtown Inn, CashtownLocated just outside Gettysburg, this bed and breakfast was occupied by Confederate officers during the battle of Gettysburg. Numerous ghosts have been reported here for years, seen and heard throughout the hotel. There is even a famous photograph of a mysterious extra captured in a photo of the front of the establishment. Chapter 18 Indiantown Gap, Lebanon CountyThe area around tiny Indiantown Gap is a paranormal hot spot, featuring a Headless Horseman, ghost of victims of a hotel fire, strange noises in a cemetery, and the ghost of a young woman who committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a train which has become a phantom, too. Chapter 19 Fulton Opera House, LancasterThis Victorian era theater featured famous actors, actresses and singers, and the ghosts of Sarah Bernhardt and Marie Cahill linger still. There are also the phantom sounds of applause and piano playing, and ghosts of Indians as well. The theater was built on the site of a former jail. Chapter 20 Alfred s Victorian Restaurant, MiddletownEmma Young, the second wife of one of the owners of this ornate establishment, is the most prominent ghost here. Her rocking chair moves by itself, her lavender perfume wafts through the narrow corridors, and objects are rearranged by her ghostly hands. A male ghost shouts at people who take photographs. Chapter 21 Bube s Brewery, Mt. JoyGhostly forms and voices are experienced in the subterranean caverns turned into dining rooms. Specters of former patrons are observed in the upstairs dining rooms, too. Chapter 22 Accomac Inn, WrightsvilleThe most famous ghost here is John Coyle, Jr., who lived here with his father in th 19th century. He fell for a woman employee who spurned his advances, and shot her to death in the inn s barn. He was hanged and then buried on the property. Other phenomena include ghostly voices, music, and the rearrangement of furniture when no one is looking. Chapter 23 Chickie s Rock, York CountyThis imposing piece of granite overlooking the Susquehanna River is haunted by the ghosts of people who have fallen to their deaths, either by accident, murder or suicide. Mysterious beings called applewichs live in the trees and steal food from picnickers. Chapter 24 Cordurus Furnace, York CountyA lady in white drifts about the ruins of this Revolutionary War-era furnace. She is thought to be the victim of an abusive man who managed the place. Ghostly voices are heard on site. WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA Chapter 25 McConnell s Mill State Park, Butler CountyThe area around the old mill on Slippery Rock Creek has numerous ghosts wandering about. Among them is a man carrying a lantern, thought to be an employee from the days when the mill was operational, and who died in an accident there, and another man, Moses Whorton, who was a caretaker in the early 20th century. At night people say they hear screams coming from the mill, and see ghostly forms floating about. Chapter 26 Frick Mansion, PittsburghAlso known as Clayton House, this was built by industrial magnate Henry Clay Frick. The ghost of Henry s wife, Adelaide, still watches over the place, and leaves depressions in her former bed. Chapter 27 John Heinz Pittsburgh Regional History Center, PittsburghThis was once the location of the Chautauqua Ice Co., which exploded in a fire in 1898. Ghosts rattle around, especially on the fifth floor and near the loading dock, and mess around with the exhibits. Chapter 28 Pittsburgh Playhouse, PittsburghThe historical theater is one of the most haunted theaters in the country, and one of the top paranormal hot spots in Pittsburgh. Among its many ghosts are the Lady in White, John Johns, Weeping Eleanor, Gorgeous George, and the Bouncing Red Meanie. The Lady in White, thought to be an actress who shot her philandering husband and his mistress to death. At various times parts of the theater have been a synagogue, a wedding reception hall and even a brothel. Colorful history and ghosts to match! NORTHERN PENNSYLVANIA Chapter 29 Watson-Curze Mansion, ErieNow the home of the Erie Historical Society Museum, the mansion is host to ghosts who still enjoy socializing and dancing in the ballroom. A child s bedroom is haunted by the ghost of a little girl who spent much of her time there in sickbed. Chapter 30 Ole Bull State Park and Black Forest, Potter CountyOle Bull State Park lies in Pennsylvania s Black Forest, an area with many hauntings of apparitions and mysterious creatures, including Sasquatch and thunderbirds. The ruins of Ole Bull Castle in Ole Bull State Park are haunted by Ole Bornemann Bull, a famous Norwegian violinist who toured America and tried to establish a colony here. His ghost fiddles away. "
