Yes, I own a GPS, which I use in the car, but it has it's limitations both graphically and in other ways. A GPS doesn't provide the valuable detailed info and other features that a Hagstrom atlas gives you at your fingertips. Furthermore, it beats all other printed maps -- Geographia, Rand McNally, etc. For me Hagstroms are the gold standard, but now are very difficult to find in bookstores, as I think the company may have tragically gone out of business, though you can still purchase them online. I highly recommend having one in the car, just in case your GPS poops out or is incorrect (which does happen every now and then).0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Since I use this map to supplement my GPS, I wanted more durable pages. The non laminated paper pages eventually start to tear. Will have to upgrade to other $37.- version.
