McHenryThis is an amazing book of stories/memoirs, written by a fascinating woman I have had the pleasure of meeting. She now lives full-time in rural Thailand. The book is a must read for solo, women travelers; as well as those who are interested in the lowest cost travel that careful planning can accomplish. But at the end of your reading experience, it will be the vivid stories that stick with you. The kidnappings; that courtroom in Greece; the "hash king" in Lebanon, and OMG the African stories. You'll feel like you've personally traveled 5,000 miles on a moped/moto when you're done. I rank this as one of the best books of its genre I've ever read. Absolute jewel of a book. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Great adventures! By Susan Dawson What a rollicking good time Cat has as a traveler. I liked her approach to describing her love of travel (many years and to many off the beaten path places), which unfurls like a rumination, instead of a chronological tale. She's had some wild times, and writes "I've cut my wandering teeth at a time when travel was simple, sweet and cheap." I loved the people she met and her beautiful view of the world. You'll enjoy reading this, especially independent travelers, as Cat has the essence of 'finding her way' with a great attitude. It's got some real memorable close calls, and her style is so casual and knowledgeable that you feel like you want to join her next trip. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Traveling adventure By JM BI have read Cat's book many times and always find a new treasure....a new thought..in this book she has describe a time when travel was less structured, and the beaten path was not readily available. For those of you who want to feel those days this book is a must read. From a young girl on to her life's adventure which she is still living...the true meaning of an ex-pat....and she has a new book coming out which I am looking forward to reading..the adventure is always ongoing Just under 40 years of independent adventure travel provides the material for a collection of personal vignettes staged in far flung exotic destinations. Take a peak into an eclectic selection of countries with an addicted globetrotter. Through a series of essays focusing on aspects of travel as a way of organizing a lifetime of on-the-road experiences, Safari na Paka is an attempt to convey the infectious joy to be found in travel. As a perpetual and personal rite of passage, it is a celebration of travel, of itchy feet and a quest to learn and understand what this grand old world is all about. Paka takes you on unique transport to places traditional modes often do not go. Safari sana, Safari njema, Safari na Paka!
