A FANTASTIC BOOK AND A MUST READ!By Lynn WortonI received a copy of this book from the author in return for an honest review.I'm not a huge fan of biographies, so when I was approached to review this one, I was somewhat reluctant. However, I thought to myself, "Why not try something different, and keep an open mind." So that's what I did, and I am very happy to report that I absolutely loved this story! Usually, I find biographies extremely boring. However, I found myself completely transfixed by this amazing person and his exploits. I even forgot that Tony Giles has a hearing and sight disability. To travel the world on your own takes guts, and I'm ashamed to say I don't have any. However, Tony Giles seems to have a thirst for adventure, and is willing to take a chance to experience life to the fullest. His descriptions of places and events are extremely vivid, and I could easily see him as he travelled through America, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand. I could tell that he loves history, and has a keen interest in warfare. This comes through his various visits to war museums and his descriptions of various war machines during his travels. He also is a bit of an adrenalin junkie. He made me feel exhausted with all the activities he had planned, and participated in! His descriptions of the countries, and places within them, made me want to go visit them. Tony Giles has written an amazing account of his travels. I have nothing but the utmost respect for him. I wish him all the best for any future travels he has planned, and hope he gets to visit some of the places he still wants to go to. I highly recommend this book to everyone, even if you don't like biographies, because this is one person who has inspired me to try something different. I'm going to try to be a bit more adventurous in the future, and take a chance to do something I have always wanted to do - take a trip on a cruise ship to see the Northern Lights. - Lynn Worton 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Awesome and Inspiring By Julia Johnson Prior to interviewing this author, I read this awesome book. I was so into it, I read it in one sitting. In this book Tony shows that having a disability does not limit a person. Seeing the World My Way takes you through Tony's travels around the U.S., Australia, New Zealand, and Vietnam. I thoroughly enjoyed this book and am looking forward to the next one. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Intrepid! By Maxwell A brilliant and inspiring book. Being a bit of a back packer myself I know how hard the logistics can be; but to do it with the added difficulties that Tony obviously has is amazing. The continual energy and enthusiasm is something that we could all do with a bit more of especially if ever feeling sorry for ourselves. A highly recommended read!

A totally blind and partially deaf guy's global adventures.. 'Seeing the World My Way' follows Tony Giles' journey of hedonism and thrill-seeking adventure as he travels across North America, Asia and Australasia. Full of drama, danger and discovery, this fascinating travel biography is a young blind man's view of the world as he sets out to achieve his dream, dealing with disability whilst living life to the limit. From bungee jumping in New Zealand to booze filled nights out in New Orleans, 'Seeing the World My Way' is a no-holds-barred account that is certainly not for the faint hearted. Travel the world in a whole new way with Tony Giles' frank, honest and exhilarating romp through one adrenaline-fuelled experience after another.

About the Author Tony Giles was born in Weston-super-Mare on the west coast of England in 1978. Diagnosed at a young age with Cone Dystrophy, a rare eye condition, and Photophobia, an extreme sensitivity to light, he maintained some vision until the age of eighteen when he lost all sight except for his ability to recognise bright sunlight. At the age of six, he developed nerve sensory hearing loss that has progressively worsened over time. Despite this, Tony gained a Bachelors of Arts Degree in American Studies from Northampton University in 2001 and a Masters Degree in Transatlantic Studies from Birmingham University in 2003. He has travelled from a young age and continues to enjoy experiencing new parts of the world, his most recent journeys including trips to the USA, Sri Lanka and Iceland. Seeing The World My Way is Tony Giles' first book. He is currently working on its sequel. When he's not travelling, he lives in Teignmouth, Devon. Tony says, "If you want it, and have a heart for it, anything can be achieved. I desired it so badly that I travelled around the world solo twice. And if I can do it, so can you".
