Joanna Biggar : Travels Other Poems before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Travels Other Poems:

A collection of poems by globe-trotting journalist Joanna Biggar. This 40-page chapbook is limited to 500 numbered, signed copies. Glossy black and white covers feature two photos of the author and biographical notes. A publication in The Argonne Hotel Press Poetry Chapbook Series (established 1995)

About the Author Joanna Biggar lives on one coast or the other, teaches and writes. She has recently lost her day job, inhabited Capitol Hill, sneaked off to Paris, worked on a novel, and rekindled dreams of crossing the Sahara. She is a contributing editor to WordWrights! magazine. Her chapbook Travels was published by The Argonne Hotel Press in 1996, and re-issued as Travels and Other Poems in 1998.
