Fun insight into life at sea for the mate of a captain!By K.T.My husband is also a master mariner (sea captain) although with three small children, we have yet to join him out at sea. This was a fun read to gain insight into life of a merchant mariner couple. . .and so much of it rang true, given the stories my husband shares with me. It's a very different life filled with people from all walks of life. You never know who you'll meet, what you'll see or experience! We hope to have a the whole family out for a few months within the next year. Thanks for the insight!

A humorous and personal account of life on board a rough cargo ship travelling all over the world. With 18 pages of photographs.
