Frank Barrett : Treasured Island: A Book Lover's Tour of Britain before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Treasured Island: A Book Lover's Tour of Britain:

1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Absolutely fascinating. By Gillian Paterson Once started, I was unable to put this book down. It is very well written and absolutely fascinating to read. I learned more about British authors, poets throughout the ages than I ever knew though I did go to school in England. I now live in a retirement home in the USA and everyone I have loaned this book to are equally fascinated.

Inspired by the discovery of his childhood copy of Treasure Island, Frank Barrett embarks on a literary quest around Britain, from Eliot's East Coker to Austen's Bath, Winnie-the-Pooh's Hartfield to Dracula's Whitby. Armed with a lifetime of reading and his National Trust membership, Frank is on a personal odyssey through the Britain that has inspired so many writers to capture it in lines or verse, the homes that they lived in, the museums that remember them. There will be rain, there will be truculent tour guides, there will be satnav misdemeanors, (there may even be tuberculosis), but Frank will carry on regardless. Where? To the lighthouse.

"A chatty and light-hearted commentary." (We Love this Book); "Interspersed with trenchant observations and spiced with good gossip stories." (Mail on Sunday); "What makes it great is you are obviously in the hands of someone who loves this stuff." (Monocle)
About the Author Frank Barrett is travel editor of the Mail on Sunday. He has written several travel books including Where Was Wonderland, a guide to real-life locations of classic children's books such as Anne of Green Gables and The Secret Garden, and is the winner of several Travel Writer of the Year award.
