2 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Best FriendsBy Anita Whitney[[ASIN:0966772644 Living with Wolfdogs: An Everyday Guide to a Lifetime Companionship, Second Edition (Wolf Hybrid Education)]] This is the utterly charming story of a man's twelve years of time with his beloved wolfdog, Cody. The story encompasses the adventures and travels of these two best friends: the relationships that the author forms with people he and Cody meet on these travels, and always, Cody's reactions to everything. This book, despite the inevitable fact that Cody's life ends - and we all know that a dog's life always ends too soon - has a happy ending. In these hard times, that fact alone makes it an inspiring and worthwhile read.

The true story of the author's life with Cody, a wolf-malamute mix. A heart-warming tale with many escapades and comedic misadventures along the way. Travel with Nick Cody through the picturesque Appalachians, ramble out west to visit ghost towns and spectacular National Parks and meet the many interesting characters along the road. It is a part-pet, part-travel, part-romance story that will appeal to a wide variety of readers.

About the Author Drawing, painting, clay, photography, drumming - Nicholas Powell has been a jack of all trades, but the one venue that has always called to him is writing. "A writer can take you places you've never been before. They can show you landscapes and they can show you mindscapes. They can introduce you to incredible people - some good, some bad and some just plain ordinary folk like us. They can make you laugh, make you cry, make you mad as hell - then make you feel all the things in between. And that is a form of magic." Thanks to Cody the Ambassa-Dog, Nicholas is now married to his best human friend and the love of his life, Leahsandra, who is also a writer. Cody introduced them in the wilds of the North Carolina mountains years ago. They currently live in North Florida with two rowdy, teenage wolfdogs.
