As accurate as it gets By deb kadaner As another fellow passenger on the Aegean 1, this book certainly describes it all. I enjoyed reading it as it reminded me of 4 months of great adventures. I rarely keep a book after reading it, but this one has a place on my shelf with the many videos of our world cruise.

Uneasy about traveling in this post-September 11 period? Take this 'virtual voyage' around the globe with visits to all seven continents. The journey will likely convince you that the author is correct: Do it! Follow as he guides you on a four month cruise around the globe, sharing insights and observations along the way, all in good humor. Visit Machu Picchu, Antarctica, Tasmania, Easter Island, Bali, Masai Mara, Egypt, Jerusalem and other exotic spots. Pick up practical tips: what to pack, how to prepare, what it will cost.

From the Publisher Just what we need in this time of '911' uncertainty. A timely book written with compassion and good humor. Brings a new perspective to world cruising. Fun and informative. From the Author This book is based on what seemed at the time to be a once-in-a-lifetime experience. With 20-20 hindsight it became obvious that a similar experience could be repeated and is within reach of many of us. I have tried to share that insight. The theme, one I think you will agree with after reading the book, is: Do it! About the Author Dr Puscheck holds advanced degrees in operations research and electrical engineering. He has lectured widely and taught at several colleges and universities. Although he has traveled extensively, this is his first travel book. In it he writes candidly about his experience in taking a 'slow boat' around the world and the wisdom of 'travel when you can' advice. When not traveling he can often be found in his Blue Ridge Mountain cabin or fly fishing for trout.
