

[Library ebook] Walks in Welcoming Places: Walks in the Northeast for the Not So Young and the Disabled

Walks in Welcoming Places: Walks in the Northeast for the Not So Young and the Disabled

Marina Harrison, Lucy D. Rosenfeld
DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

 Download

 Read Online

#13657155 in Books M. Kesend Pub. 1995-09-01 Original language: English PDF # 1 .54 x 5.58 x 8.291, #File Name: 0935576495164 pages | File size: 27.Mb

Marina Harrison, Lucy D. Rosenfeld : Walks in Welcoming Places: Walks in the Northeast for the Not So Young and the Disabled before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Walks in Welcoming Places: Walks in the Northeast for the Not So Young and the Disabled:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. I would give it ZERO stars if I could By Bud02451 This book was a total disappointment. It did not have one useful walk. It didn't show photos. It didn't list details or diagrams. It didn't go into any depth about anything. I skimmed it and then donated it to charity. Useless.

Book by Harrison, Marina, Rosenfeld, Lucy D.

From Library Journal Harrison and Rosenfeld (Artwalks in New York, LJ 8/91) here describe access to 30 sites in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New England that are appropriate for day trips by the physically disabled, those with young children, or ambulatory adults of all ages who enjoy the simple pleasures of gardens, outdoor sculpture, academic cultural offerings, and natural settings. Each four- to seven-page entry clearly lists the hours, historical context of the site, handicap accessibility, admission charge if applicable, phone number(s), what one will find at the site, and clear driving directions (some even have maps). As a former New Englander who has been to several of the sites listed, this reviewer found the information correct and current. This is a jewel of a book that all public libraries in the Northeast ought to provide their disabled and/or senior citizen patrons. The low price is also an added attraction. Scott Johnson, Meridan Community Coll. Lib., Miss. Copyright 1996 Reed Business Information, Inc.