Focus on architecture
By NOLA born I use the Wallpaper Guides for their focus on architecture and design. They're usually well-written and can lead you to odd, out-of-the-way places that most tourists might not find. Without this book, I might not have visited the Art Deco buildings of Fair Park in Dallas or the massive Texas Pacific railroad depot in Fort Worth. On the other hand, the restaurants and hotels recommended are too trendy and expensive for the average traveler (like me). The editors tend to focus on quirky shops and the hippest eating establishments and bars, which can date these guides pretty quickly. Places that were hot when the writer visited the city might not even be in business by the time the guide gets to you. The Wallpaper Guides are definitely not comprehensive, general interest travel books, but their architecture and design sections are done well. If you're looking for a special interest guide with a very specific focus, this could be a good purchase.

The fast-track guide for the smart traveller.

'The answer to every short-breaker's dream. The jewel-coloured guides look beautiful and are exquisitely designed.'
The Times 'Gorgeous photography, sharp graphics, and design-savvy, waffle-free text, written by city insiders rather than bearded backpackers.'
The Independent 'Glamorous, global and affordable.'
Telegraph magazine 'Packed with insider knowledge and eye-catching photography.'
Vogue 'Ultra-glam, uber-chic'
The Observer 'Attractive and well-researched.'
USA Today 'Ultra-stylish.'
Time Magazine 'Sophisticated but simple.'
The New York Times 'Small, stylish and beautifully illustrated, the Wallpaper* City Guides make everything else look old hat. ... The photographs and maps are superb.'
The Sydney Magazine
